Priority groups added to H1N1 immunization lineup

By Staff Writers

New priority groups will be added today to those who are eligible to receive H1N1 immunization at clinics across the province.

On Oct. 30, swamped by an overwhelming demand and facing vaccine shortages, Alberta Health Services specified that priority groups, beginning with children from six months to under five years of age, would get the H1N1 vaccine. On Nov. 6, the clinics expanded to include pregnant women.

Today, the clinics expand again to include children under 10 who are at high risk as a result of underlying health issues, and parents or caregivers of children under six months of age.

H1N1 and Seasonal Flu Clinics

Upcoming immunization clinics at Elk Point Seniors Recreation Centre:

Nov. 10 - 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.
Nov. 17 - 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Nov. 24 - 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

In a teleconference call last Thursday, Dr. André Corriveau, Alberta's chief medical officer of health, said that the province would expand the clinics after assessing the supply left after the weekend.

"We do have sufficient vaccine," added Dr. Gerry Predy, senior medical officer of health for Alberta. "There is no need to rush." Parents don't need to worry if their children did not receive the vaccine last week, as more will be available, he said.

'Visitor' info will involve businesses

By Vicki Brooker

Review Staff

Elk Point's economic development coordinator Bob Bezpalko returned from the Alberta Visitor Information Providers (AVIP) Conference and the Tourism Industry of Alberta (TIALTA) Conference in Banff filled with enthusiasm for the role of Elk Point's new Visitor Information EcoCentre in the community.

"It's visitor information, not tourist information," Bezpalko said at last week's chamber of commerce meeting. "It gets more people involved. My goal is to have information from every business in town for the visitors."

"Visitor friendly" was the message conveyed by virtually every speaker at the AVIP Conference, Bezpalko said. He also learned about the accreditation program for visitor information centres, and "would like to see ours accredited."

Trends in tourism, including eco-travel, connection with nature and enhanced experiences, and the technology of websites and social media used to get the message to potential visitors were prominent conference topics.

A community or attraction "needs a vision and a champion" to make it thrive, Bezpalko learned at one conference session. "Sandy (Smith) is that, and so is Thomas (Kondla), for the EcoCentre," he noted.

The EcoCentre is nearing completion, with the final touches being added to the deck and wheelchair ramps, heating ready to be turned on and the pole in place for the solar array.

"Moving day should be soon," chamber president Sandy Smith assured FCSS director Deanna Easthope and her assistant, Sue Cleland, who would like to be in their new quarters before winter arrives in full force.

The FCSS department is also hoping to upgrade the welcome package they distribute to new residents of the community, and asked businesses for any promotional items they might have that could be included in the baskets. Cleland said four packages had been delivered last week, and six or eight in the past month.

Remembrance Day observances

Elk Point and district will observe Remembrance Day on Wednesday, Nov. 11, with ceremonies at the Elk Point cenotaph and the Seniors' Recreation Centre.

Representatives of groups and organizations are being asked to meet at the Seniors Recreation Centre at 10:30 a.m. to form up for the parade to the nearby cenotaph, where wreaths will be laid by representatives of governments, organizations and businesses.

The assembly will then move into the Seniors' Centre for a short program honouring all those who have served their country in war and in peacekeeping missions.

A light lunch will be served.

Fall victim still in critical condition

By Cst. JOHN SPAANS
Elk Point RCMP

Police assistance

During the early morning hours of Oct. 22, Elk Point RCMP were called to an Elk Point residence where a male had fallen down the stairs. The male was non-responsive when RCMP and EMS arrived. The male was transported to an area hospital and flown to Edmonton where he remains in critical condition. Elk Point RCMP continue to monitor the male's condition and are investigating the circumstances surrounding the incident.

Stolen vehicle

On Oct. 24, Elk Point RCMP were asked to be on the lookout for a stolen vehicle in Frog Lake. The owner loaned his truck to a relative who then failed to return it. A short time after the complaint was received, the complainant called back to say that he had located the vehicle and was chasing it down the highway. The vehicle soon stopped and the two occupants fled on foot. The vehicle was returned to the owner, who did not wish to have his relative charged.

Aggravated assault

Late in the evening on Oct. 25, Elk Point RCMP were called to an injured male at the fire hall in Fishing Lake. The man had been stabbed in the face, possibly with a broken glass bottle. A suspect has been identified but the male victim is not cooperating with police efforts. Investigation is ongoing.

Domestic violence

On Oct. 23 at approximately 7 p.m., Elk Point RCMP received a 911 call from a child who said that his father was trying to kill his mother. Police determined the location of the call and contacted the involved parties. Investigation found that the male suspect had pushed the female victim into a bedroom where the two engaged in a heated verbal argument. The male suspect has been charged with one count of assault.

During the afternoon of Oct. 26, Elk Point RCMP received a call regarding an assault in Frog Lake. Members attended to find a female victim with a broken nose. The female had been in an argument with the male suspect when the male punched her in the face. The 23-year-old male of Onion Lake, SK has been charged with assault.

During the early morning hours of Oct. 30, a 911 call was received with nothing said. Police were able to determine the call originated from a residence in Elk Point. Upon arrival, members found a female with a number of children. The female had been assaulted and the suspect fled the scene. Area detachments were notified and the suspect was located in St. Paul. The 35-year-old Saddle Lake male has been charged with assault. The female victim did not suffer serious injuries.

On Nov. 1, RCMP members were called to an assault in Frog Lake. Members attended the residence and located the victim, who displayed signs of being in a physical altercation. The female's family members had taken her out of her residence after they had concerns for her safety. Investigation found that the female had been assaulted the previous day by a 41-year-old male. The suspect was located and arrested. The Frog Lake resident has been charged with one count of assault.

Impaired driving

During the evening of Oct. 30, Elk Point RCMP were conducting a patrol on Highway 41 when a vehicle was stopped for speeding. During the traffic stop it was determined that the 18-year-old male driver was impaired by alcohol. The male was arrested and returned to the Elk Point Detachment where breath tests indicated a blood alcohol level in excess of twice the legal limit. The Kehewin resident has been charged with impaired driving and operating a motor vehicle with a blood alcohol in excess of 80 mg per cent.

Forts plan ahead for 2010

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

Plans are already well underway for the 2010 season at Fort George and Buckingham House, with dates set for all of the major events at last week's meeting of the Friends of the Forts.

The Riverland Challenge will again be the first event of the year, on Saturday, May 29, and Sheila Thompson, who coordinates that event, says she is ready to start working on the many details of the event, including increased signage. The 2010 Challenge will once again start in the field adjacent to the riverside campground south of Elk Point, which she says is "a great place for a starter event."

Thompson reported that she also has a head start on obtaining items for the interpretive centre gift shop, and already has a variety of items ordered or on hand ready for next May's opening day.

One new event has been added to the calendar for the coming year, and the Saturday, June 19 activities will attract both ATV enthusiasts and geocachers from a wide area. ATV enthusiasts will be invited to take a well-marked route off the Iron Horse Trail to visit the Forts and enjoy a tour and a barbecue lunch, while geocachers will be invited to take part in a hunt for clues at various points, found by tracking down the GPS coordinates, and with clues in hand, to solve a mystery and win prizes.

July's feature event will once again be the Saskatoon Festival on July 17, while the annual Forts des Prairies Jamboree is slated for Sunday, Aug. 29.

The Friends of the Forts will meet again Jan. 14 to work out more details on the events and to elect their 2010 executive at their annual meeting.

Chamber

Extravaganza preparations are progressing slowly, as is the funding total, with only about a quarter of the needed donations arriving before last Wednesday's meeting. Some events have been confirmed and volunteer groups are coming on board to assist with activities. The chamber is looking for a new site for the photos with Santa, and a new group to take charge of the kids' games.

H1N1 immunization

Other priority groups were expressing concern that they hadn't been able to access the vaccine, said Predy, who noted that Alberta Health officials were sympathetic. "These are not easy decisions."

However, currently, the focus is on those who would get the more severe illness if they were to contract H1N1, he said.

More than 20 per cent of Albertan hospitalizations have been children under the age of nine, with younger children exhibiting the worst symptoms. Pregnant women are also a priority, as they are four to five times more likely than the average population to experience complications from the flu.

As of Nov. 6, there have been 480 cases of hospitalizations and 20 deaths in Alberta. The majority of people who have been hospitalized or have died had "known underlying conditions," according to Alberta Health Services.

It's time to talk to your MLA about health care

The Alberta Union of Provincial Employees shares your concerns about the Government of Alberta's direction for our public health care system.

Staff levels are being reduced, hospital beds are being closed across Alberta, and funding is being cut to levels that threaten the quality and safety of our health care system.

Here are four questions you should ask your MLA:

- 1) Why is the Government of Alberta making cuts to Alberta's public health care system?
- 2) Why isn't the Government of Alberta planning to add any public long-term care beds to our health care system to accommodate our aging population?
- 3) How will cuts to the health care system affect the programs I depend on?
- 4) Why is the government making funding cuts to public programs instead of cutting back on its multi-billion dollar infrastructure plan?

To contact your MLA just call the Government of Alberta's toll-free line 310-0000, from anywhere in the province.

AUPE believes, like you, that every Albertan has a right to a safe and universally accessible health care system. Let's make sure that the government knows that.

End of an era at Windsor Club

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

"It's the end of an era. It's a tragedy," Carla Ganske mourned as she accepted a donation from one of the shoppers at Saturday's garage sale at the Windsor Club.

The former social hub of the Windsor Salt's company town of Riverview and the country that surrounded it, the Windsor Club was the site of countless curling bonspiels, cribbage tournaments and community events ranging from bridal showers to retirement parties. The adjacent outdoor skating rink was home ice for the Lindbergh Last Knights.

Warmer winters took their toll on the natural ice of both curling and skating rinks, but a water line break that flooded the facility, added to leaks in the aging roof, that signalled the end for the use of the facility.

Gordon Fakeley, a second-generation salt plant retiree, remembered when the club was built, and the crew of volunteers shingling the roof invited him up to learn the skill. "The weather was like this, that November," he said. "It's pretty sad."

As purchasers hauled out the shuffleboard, kitchen equipment and chairs, Fakeley recalled that all the furnishings had been purchased with money put in by the members. He also recalled the westernmost part of the building being added "when it wasn't big enough. We had some great Christmas parties here."

Ganske and Cathy Lindquist, who both grew up in the company community, recalled teen parties as well.

"We had some good times here."

The curling rocks and other rink equipment will be donated to Myrnam Curling Club, according to Richard Ganske. "They were donated to us in the past, and we're paying that forward."

The old-style curling trophies will be handed over to some of those who won them, but the Ganskes are still not sure how to track down the owners of a silver tray that turned up in one of the cupboards. It's engraved, "Rudy and Bernice, Christmas 1979, from the Staff."

Gordon Fakeley displays a photo of prizes from a long-ago bonspiel in the Windsor Club's heydays.

EDITORIAL

Peace, not glory, the goal

Elk Point was only a hamlet when the residents of this region first heeded the call to arms, and left their farms and businesses to head off to fight for their country and the British Empire in a “war to end all wars.”

Just over 20 years after the final shots of World War I gave way to silence, it was evident that that conflict had not been, as had been hoped, the end of wars forever. Once again, farms and jobs were left behind as the quest for peace took precedence.

These men and women did not go to war in search of glory, and few if any in search of adventure. They went because there was a job that needed to be done, a wrong that needed to be made right, and some, along with their families, the peace that followed came at a terrible cost.

The quest for peace is ongoing, and those who serve today are also just doing a largely thankless job. Let us support them with our prayers, and our poppies, as we remember those in whose footsteps they follow.

Way Back When...

Wreaths placed, ambulance parked, listening pledged

Here’s the news that made the headlines of the Lakeland Review and the Elk Point Review for the week of Nov. 10 in...

1984

Ada Scott laid a wreath at Elk Point’s cenotaph on behalf of all mothers of servicemen during Remembrance Day ceremonies. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce agreed to once again sponsor a Christmas lighting and decorating contest, and asked their retail merchants’ committee to determine the Christmas shopping hours.

1989

Elk Point floor curlers Anita Ballas, Morris Cooper, Mike Palinka and Helga Vaughan were the first seniors to have their names inscribed on the Alberta Senior Citizens’ Sports and Recreation Association Zone 7 trophy donated by Westmin Resources. Planning for Christmas Extravaganza was progressing very slowly, due to insufficient attendance at the chamber of commerce meeting to make the needed decisions.

1994

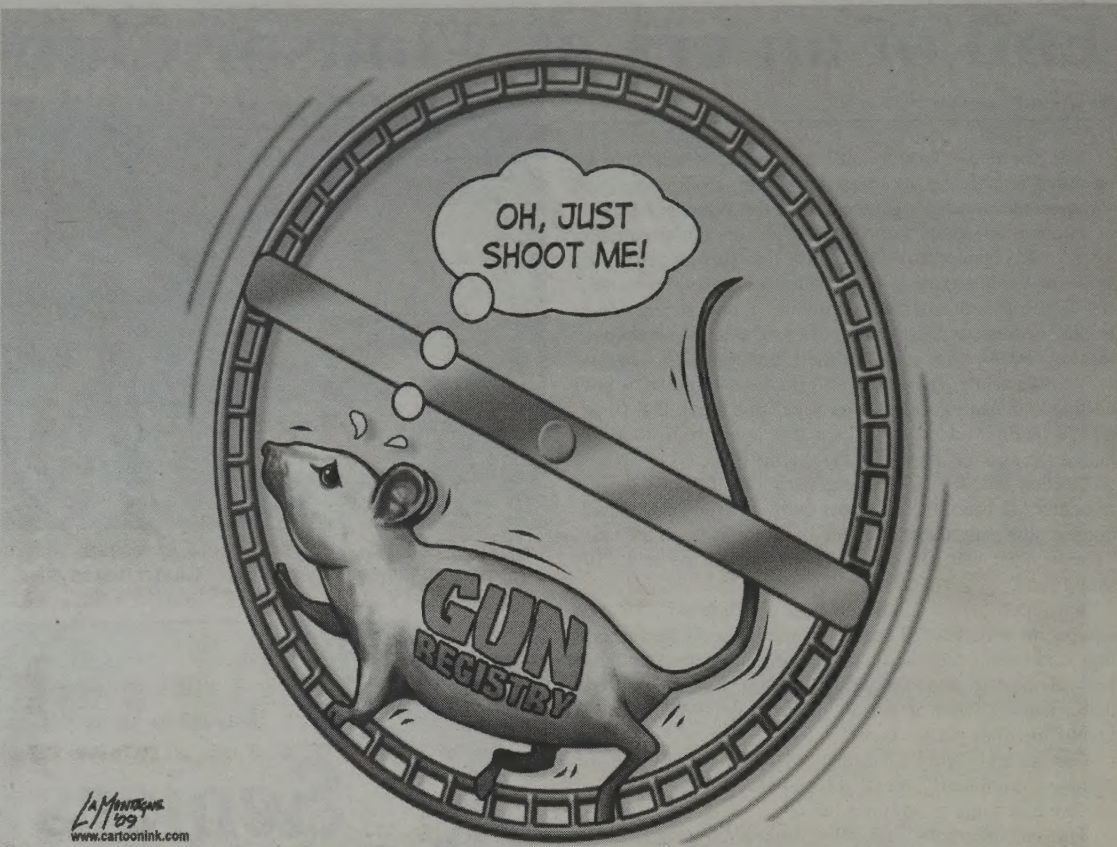

Elk Point’s new town councillors, Ron Smith, Louis Verhagen and Dave Yake were sworn in at council’s organizational meeting. Elk Point lost its ambulance service after 11 years, with owner Fred Lambright citing the tremendous cuts to the health care system as the reason for discontinuing his service.

1999

Stems N Stuff, operated by Manon Joice, was named Elk Point Chamber of Commerce Business of the Year, after receiving eight of the 25 nominations received by the chamber for a total of 11 businesses. Two elderly Elk Point residents were injured when their car proceeded through a gap in barricades, through which a public works vehicle had just emerged, and nosedived into an excavation.

2004

Elk Point’s new and optimistic mayor Parrish Tung and his council met and greeted their ratepayers at a town hall meeting, where the mayor told them, “We’re here to listen. We don’t have all the answers, but we will try our best to find the answers for you.” Residents also had the opportunity to meet the newly-arrived Dr. Ayobami Oyeboode, who said, “Just call me Dr. O.”

GUEST COLUMN

Remembrance

Yesterday, November 9 marked the twentieth anniversary of the fall of the Berlin wall. On November 9, 1989, the border separating Western from Eastern Germany was effectively opened. During its existence from 1961 to 1989, the Wall stopped almost all emigration and separated East Germany from West Germany for more than a quarter of a century. The Fall of the Berlin Wall will always be used as a symbol for the end of the Cold War. This war occurred after three other wars in the last century.

deanna
from the FCSS desk

Canada entered World War 1 in 1914. Almost 620,000 Canadian men and women served in the First World War at a time when the population of the country was only a few million. Of these, more than 66,000 were killed. At the Battle of the Somme, British Forces suffered their heaviest one-day loss ever, more than 57,000 men. More than 700 men from the Newfoundland regiment were killed or injured during this battle. Four Canadians were awarded the Victoria Cross, the Commonwealth’s highest award for bravery, for their part in capturing Vimy Ridge. Canadian John McCrae wrote the poem “In Flanders Fields” while on the battlefield. During the course of the war, Canada’s naval service grew from 350 men and two ships to a force of 9,000 men and 100 ships.

More than 40,000 Canadians sacrificed their lives during World WarII, which began with Hitler’s invasion of Poland on September 1, 1939. Just two days after the invasion, Britain, France, Australia, and New Zealand declared war on Germany, and Canada followed almost immediately on September 10, 1939. The Second World War lasted six terrible years and left a legacy of death and destruction. It was truly a world war encircling the globe from the Atlantic to the pacific and touching the far reaches of the Arctic.

The Korean War was the first major international conflict that followed the end of the Second World War. It was the initial test for the newly formed United Nations, which had been created in an attempt to prevent a future world war from happening, through the use of negotiations, dialogue, and, if necessary, the use of force as supplied by the Armed Forces of the member nations. The United Nations called upon its members to take collective military action against an aggressor nation. Many nations answered the call. Such a response was quite remarkable as many of the sixteen nations who fought were only just recovering from the Second World War. Canada and Canadians answered the call to duty. On July 27, 1953, the Korea Armistice Agreement was signed at Panmunjom, ending three years of fighting.

There is a cliché that those who forget their past are doomed to repeat it. And like all clichés, this one contains a lot of truth. Arthur Ogden, who was a young British prisoner of war in the Second World War, wrote a poem about our responsibility to remember:

“And we that are left grow old with the years Remembering the heartache, the pain and the tears Hoping and praying that never again Man will sink to such sorrow and shame. The price that was paid we will always remember Every day – every month – not just in November”. To this day his words remain a fitting sentiment – the need to remember our history and those who sacrificed so much so that we who followed could have a future. Even though the origin of war today is not the same, we still should remember.

At the 11th hour, on the 11th day, of the 11th month,

We will Remember

Nine decades of remembering

In Canada, the first Remembrance Day ceremony took place at 11.00 a.m. on November 11, 1919. This means that we have been remembering our war heroes for nine decades now and the ceremonies are still very relevant.

Originally, the objective of Remembrance Day was to pay homage to all those who gave their lives in the Great War. Today, this special day commemorates all members of the Canadian military who have perished on land or at sea during past or current wars.

For 90 years, ceremonies across the country have been occasions to express our collective memories, compassion and respect for the missing and the dead. We wear poppies and observe two minutes of silence. Every second passed in silence should also be devoted to thinking of the courageous nurses who cared for the wounded during two world wars, to farm workers and office workers who contributed to the war effort as well as to the wives and mothers who received the terrible news of the disappearance of a brother, son or husband.

(Reproduced with the permission of Veterans Affairs Canada)

For those of us born in peace time, the terrible damage wrought by war is never very real. But on November 11, we have every occasion to remember the efforts made by Canadians, both men and women, who are stationed in places such as Afghanistan. Indeed, since the terrible events of September 11, 2001 many Canadians have died in conflict zones. And finally, Remembrance Day is also the time to take a moment of silence and vow to make the same sacrifices as these heroic Canadians, if our peace should be threatened.

Kissel concert a hit

Country star Brett Kissel (above centre) came to town Friday night for a concert at the Allied Arts and Leisure Centre, along with bass player Dustin Roy and fiddler Denis Dufresne. They wowed the crowd with two great hours of country gold, contemporary country, original numbers and 1970s rock, with time out for an autograph session and to visit with his fans, many who remember him from his "world tour of seniors lodges" that included Elk Point's Heritage Lodge.

42 Years of Elkdom

Reminder for seniors

Due to the Remembrance Day holiday tomorrow, Elk Point Library's monthly Seniors's Tea has been moved back one week to Wednesday, Nov. 18 at 2 p.m.

All library patrons are reminded that the library is now open on Saturday afternoons, this increase in hours made possible by increased government funding.

Hockey news

By DOUG BASSETT

Review Sports

Not having enough players is a big problem, having too many players is a good problem. A week ago the novice team had the Hockey Alberta maximum 19 players and a few more that still wanted to play. The atoms had a full bench as well and some of them were first time players. The solution was to split the novice into teams and drop down a few overage atoms that could use the extra ice time. You can appreciate that it took a lot of extra work to reschedule the games and practice times and to find another complete coaching staff, but in the long run the children will benefit with the extra ice time, and play at a level where they can excel, because let's face it, four full lines at that level would have been a challenge to work with for any coach. Four lines at midget is a different story, someone is usually hurt, or missing serving a suspension.

Most of our Elk Point minor hockey teams are now named 'the Avalanche', this way the team sweaters can be moved around up or down, one name and one colour scheme for the whole system. We do have some team names we have used in the past, such as the Hurricanes, Lightning, Thunder, Cyclones, but for now we will call them, Novice #1 and Novice #2 for the lack of a better name.

The Novice #1 traveled to Dewberry on Saturday. Now, we all know Dewberry has the reputation of having a lot of horsepower, icing great little teams that work really hard and they have had our number for the last few years, but the Novice #1 with all the extra skating skills they have learned this year at the condition camps every Saturday and Sunday morning, really paid off with a big win. Dylan Ference and Angus MacFarlane collected four goals each, a brand new player this year, Kyle Graus, scoring his first goal ever, set up man Ethan Tremblay assisting. Hayden Ludlege strapping on the pads was doing a super job between the posts in this one stopping the rubber.

The newly formed Novice #2 team coached by volunteer Kevin Hardcastle, who stepped up and took on the task when the two teams were formed, traveled to St. Paul on Sunday and played in their first game with their new roster. Wolke Cueva and Spencer Hardcastle with a goal each, Kaiden Evans-Anderson finding the twine with two. In the cage, goaltender Dustyn Pankiw was peppered with the puck, but played extremely well and stood his ground in his new smoking hot equipment.

The flu bug is now going through Atom Avalanche team and with too many sick players they stayed home and postponed their game in Mallaig on Saturday.

The Bantam Avalanche who were plagued by the same bug last weekend, were still suffering from the side effects and cancelled both practice times this past week as well. They hosted Mallaig on Sunday but they didn't play anything close to their potential, out hustled to the puck and for the most part out muscled, and I'm not making any excuses for them, but it looked like they were still skating in the fog. A few end-to-end rushes for the big D-man Brett "the Moose" Ockerman was about all they could muster for offence. Bombarded by bullets for most of the game, Brayden "Mr. Scrooge" Vinge faced 63 shots in the one-sided contest.

The Midget Girls Storm was another story altogether on Sunday when they hosted Viking, they outplayed and outworked their opponents and were the better team on the ice, and even though they were tied at one for most of the game and eventually lost 2 to 1 with only seven minutes left in the game when their tank was running on E, they gave them a run for their money, the effort was there, all the girls contributed in some way and that's what really counts. Kelsey "the Champ" Vinge on the doorstep scoring, defense woman Lindsey "Goldilocks" MacDonald assisting.

In high school sports at F. G. Miller on Saturday at the Timmy Quinney Memorial Volleyball Tournament, the boys and the girls were both victorious winning the final.

A big happy birthday today going out to Brett Hahn, the former Storm player and coach who, by the way, is now engaged to be married next July to Mark "the Marksman" Letestu who, I'm sure he knows, is one lucky guy!

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week: "It was like I got a free buzz and now I have the hangover," Last week's answer to: "I never watched a lot of TV when I was a kid and hardly ever read. It was just me and the rink." - Eric Lindros. Do you have any scoops? Now you can email them to sportshound007@hotmail.com

Community's cooks explore new tastes at culinary guild

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Making their home just a few blocks from downtown Elk Point, Flavours, the Elk Point Culinary Guild, was formed in October 2009.

The Guild meets monthly at The Flavours Bistro, which for the rest of the month is known as the Elk Point Further Education Centre.

"The bistro offers a warm and inviting place for the Guild members to come to relax and enjoy different foods, flavours and wonderful tastes, all with good company," says Marguerite Friesen, who developed the concept after attending a gourmet dinner party.

Attendance was small at the first meeting, which featured soups, and Friesen hopes more of the community's fine food enthusiasts will "join us on an amazing culinary experience as we journey through 'Flavours of the World' at our simple little bistro ... where the dining is fine."

The next Flavours Culinary Guild tasting is Nov. 25 at 7 p.m. in the Further Education Centre, and will feature 'Just Desserts.'

"Bring a holiday dessert with a traditional or cultural significance for you as we prepare for the festive flavours of the holidays," Friesen urges.

Flavours Culinary Guild originator Marguerite Friesen (left) welcomed Carolyn Onusko to the impromptu 'bistro' in the Further Education Centre.

The flavours of harvest time enticed local cooks who attended the first meeting of Flavours Culinary Guild, where soup was on the menu.

4-H is getting busy

By ALEXIS BRISTOW
Club Reporter

Guess what is happening this November. The 4-H beef project had their weigh day on Sunday, Nov. 8. The 4-H Small Engine and Photography projects had their first meetings this past weekend.

Kayla Gibson adjusts the counterweight on the livestock scale one five-pound increment at a time as she carefully determines the starting weight of her project steer at Elk Point 4-H Club's weigh day on Sunday.

Several members and leaders will be attending the 4-H forum in Vermilion on Saturday, Nov., 21. Ashley Bristow will be receiving an award for her Beef Project Book. Cathy Ockerman is being recognized for her five years as a leader. Crystal Boorse and Glenda Bristow will also be receiving their three-year leadership awards.

Elk Point 4-H is having their battery recycling on Sunday, Nov. 22. If you have any batteries that you would like to get rid off please contact Dwayne Vogel at 780-724-4620, Cathy Ockerman 780-724-2443, Glenda Bristow 780-943-2684 or Mona Bristow 780-943-2039 to arrange for pick-up or drop off.

On Extravaganza night look for the fun dazzling 4-H float in the parade. We will also be having our Toonie Turkey Toss at the curling rink. If you hit the turkey target you win a turkey. Come on out to see how to play the game. You could walk away with a turkey. All proceeds go to Santa's Anonymous.

My last report's trivia question was: What is the 4-H motto? The answer is "Learn to do by doing."

My new 4-H trivia question: "How old is 4-H turning this year?"
